Subject: Microsoft settlement

I am very disappointed with the US Justice System settlement of the Microsoft case. It indicates to me and the rest of the world that big business like Microsoft can get away with anti-trust violations and racketeering with just a slap on the wrist. Microsoft has a massive monopoly of the computer industry gained by illegal practices. They have threatned computer vendors to accept their demands or be forced out of business. Is this the new definition of "free enterprise"?
